

CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH WEEK!

As part of our mental health and wellbeing strategy, Mr Doyle organised another fabulous drop down day for our pupils and staff to enjoy! The focus of the day was to 'connect' (in line with the NHS five steps to well-being) and ensuring that our pupils know that 'their voice matters' (linked to the national children's mental health celebration). Our children enjoyed a whole host of mental health boosting activities and ensuring that they are emotionally prepared for life beyond the classroom, is extremely high on our agenda at Flo Melly!

Bully Busters Workshops for Upper Key Stage 2!

Is there a better way to start the new half-term than by our friends at Bully Busters paying us a visit to talk to our children about how to put a stop to bullying and how to respect each other! This was part one of two sessions, which will continue later on this term!

Safer Internet Day 2024!

Before the half-term holidays, our children spent a day celebrating how to be as safe as they can online. Each and every year, as part of our cultural capital curriculum offer, our pupils spend the day exploring just how wonderful the internet is! Mr Southern, our Computing Lead, organised the day and what a wonderful celebration it proved to be. Our children enjoyed becoming 'internet legends' with virtual workshops led by Google and some lucky children even visited Anfield for an extra special internet safety workshop.

Weekly Book Recommendation for Children...

This week's book recommendation is The Thing at Number 52 by Ross Montgomery. 'There's a Thing on my street. He lives at number 52. I didn't think he had any friends, so I brought him a flower and it wasn't long before a friendship bloomed'. Thing is gentle and kind and the adventures they go on are the best you could ever imagine. A little girl soon discovers that there are many Things, living all over the place... which gives her an idea - she invites them all to a party, and the Things dance until midnight. Thing had never felt so happy but one day Thing has to go and their adventures come to an end. All Things have to go sometime. In this poignant story, discover how small acts of kindness can grow into great friendships, and how the community you build from those friendships can provide comfort and companionship when you need it most. Beautifully written and adorned with enchanting illustrations from Richard Johnson, The Thing at 52 is a tender-hearted and poignant tale of finding friendship and connection in the most unlikely places.

End of the Week Update for Parents/Carers - Friday 23rd February 2024

Year 6 - PE - Striking and Fielding

If there's one way of telling when Spring and the nicer weather is on its way, it's when the rounders bats come out of the PE cupboard and the children start their striking and fielding topic. This week, a break in the weather allowed Year 6 to venture outside and enjoy a game of rounders. Mr Moore, our Sports Coach, taught the children how to best hold the bat, they discussed tactics for fielding and throwing. The session finished with a good old fashioned game of rounders! How magnificent!
